

QUESTION MASTER

If you've not already received yours, then you will shortly be receiving your copy of the Neighbourhood Plan Questionnaire to fill in. It's an important opportunity for you, and everyone - especially the young electors - to have a say in how, why and where you want the community to develop over the next 20 or so years.

If you don't want your views spoilt, tell us... If there's something that really winds you up then tell us that too, if there's something that we need in the community let us know what... And, most importantly, if there's something that we've forgotten to mention, then do take the opportunity to bring that to our attention.

The answers that you provide in your Questionnaire will steer the formulation of the Neighbourhood Plan itself - the 'blueprint' for the future of our community. Please take the time to fill it in - it's so easy to do - just tick the boxes, either the paper copy that is delivered or the on-line copy - and have your say!

Ten minutes of your time that will last for years...

Over the weekend there will be live music, dancing, vintage aircraft, cars and bikes, firework displays and children's entertainment. Air experience flights will also be available for the adventurous.

BUGLE POSTBAG

From Margaret Bradley, Bell Lane

In view of the bad publicity in respect of the NHS I should like to reflect my recent good experience. I phoned the surgery on Monday morning about 10.30am to ask if a doctor could come to my house, as I was unable to get to the surgery. The receptionist was extremely helpful and a doctor came later that morning. I was prescribed antibiotics and they were delivered later that afternoon. I am old enough to remember when my parents had to pay for the services of a doctor and I have reason to be grateful to the NHS, and indeed our surgery, over recent years.

From Mark Wilkins, USA via email

I am trying to find information and pictures of my father and uncle, Brian Wilkins and Jack Wilkins, who lived in Husbands Bosworth. They played football a lot. I am living in the US now but I spent much of my youth in Bosworth. Very happy memories. Any pictures, links or information you could share with me would be much appreciated.

Editor's Note: Please contact the Bugle if you can help.

From Barbara Tabiner, Sibbertoft

I belong to a community peace group in Sibbertoft called 'Peace In'. This year we are holding a five-session course in September, under the banner of Health and Wellbeing, called 'Opening the Present'. This is a peace education course and will address ten core values such as choice, hope, self-awareness, dignity and appreciation etc. The course is being run with an 'after costs' donation to the Air Ambulance as we are a not-for-profit organisation with no religious or sectarian platform. More information nearer the time.

From Eleanor Murphy, Hooneypot Lane

After 100 years the village Horticultural and Craft Show is, itself, in danger of becoming history! The present organisers, one of whom has been involved for over 40 years, feel it is time to step aside for new ideas and enthusiasm to re-invigorate the Show. The vegetable and fruit class entries have been in decline for some years, while the craft and children's entries have more than doubled over the last five years.

Is it time to let the Show die a natural death? This would be a great shame and a loss to our village. Are there any groups interested in taking it over? If so they will be given all the help needed to make a smooth transition.

Please contact Eleanor on 880476 or Frank Begley on 880541 if you would consider this and with any comments or questions.

WILD ABOUT BOSWORTH

Common Yew - Taxus Baccata

'Taxus Baccata' is Latin for 'yew bearing red berries', though the word 'taxus' may be connected to an ancient Greek word for a bow.

There are many specimens growing around the village, including those in the churchyards and the cemetery. It's often said that yews were planted in churchyards as they are poisonous to browsing animals and their wood was needed for bow staves. However, yews held a spiritual significance for pre-Christians, who told dark stories of their roots becoming entangled with corpses. Subsequently, early Christians chose to build churches on these pagan sites. The other issue is that English yew is generally too twisted and knotted to be of use in weaponry. In fact, in the Middle Ages, most bow staves came from the continent. The ill-fated Richard III directed that every 'tun' of imported cargo had to be accompanied by ten bow staves.

Except for the Satin Beauty moth caterpillar, wildlife avoids the yews' poisonous foliage. But on the plus side, the dense mesh of needles and branches provides ideal nesting sites for small birds. As its seeds are poisonous, seed dispersal is problematic. The trees' solution is to cover the kernel with a bright red, non-toxic 'aril'. These tasty arils are eaten by small mammals and birds, who disperse the undamaged seeds in their waste.

All known plants play host to symbiotic bacteria and micro fungi. One of the yews' fungi contains paclitaxel, which is a source of the drug Taxol. Since the 1970s Taxol has been used in chemotherapy treatments to combat a variety of carcinomas. Although paclitaxel can now be synthesised, for many years it was extracted from plant material.

So, the Yew's historic journey has been from gruesome mythology to lifesaving medicine.

BYGONE BOSWORTH

Images from the Historical Society's Archive Collection

Family history researcher Sue Church from Nottingham originally came to Husbands Bosworth some years ago in search of links to her Tear family ancestors. Since then her exploration has taken her into other aspects of Bosworth history.

Sue has recently embarked on a project to transcribe the parish Burial Registers and in doing so has turned up a whole host of fascinating threads of social history in the pages of the registers.

There were some rather odd goings on with the death of seven of the children of one William Townsend, who all died under the age of 15 months. Certainly the record was suspicious enough for the scribe who made the entry in the register to note this fact in the margin.

Controversy also reared its head when Ann Darnell was buried in the churchyard in opposition to the Burial Board, by authority of Mr Joseph Whiteman, churchwarden. One can only wonder at the reason for her lack of favour, and Mr Whiteman's overruling of the Burial Board's wishes.

However, on April 23rd 1875 Job Wells, the village gravedigger, was buried - the registers noting that he died at work, oops...

As family history researchers will know, a simple reference in the registers can sometimes send you off in a totally new direction. This newspaper cutting from 1902 elaborates on the stark burial notice found in the registers.

DEATHS BY SUFFOCATION.—A stableman named John Gray and a youth named William Law, employed by Mr. Stapleton Bretherton at Wheeler Lodge, near Market Harborough, have been found dead in their room over the stables. Before going to bed the men made a fire of charcoal to warm the room, and the fumes suffocated them.—

CHURCH NEWS

All Saints Parish Church, Methodist Chapel & St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church

FROM THE RECTORY

For a number of reasons Father Owen, Rev Andy Murphy and myself couldn't find a date in our diaries for our churches to celebrate together in Husbands Bosworth during the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, which always happens each year towards the end of January. But we think it is important that our churches, which share a common faith, but just practice that faith in slightly different ways, should come together, acknowledge our unity and pray and worship together. So we invite you to book the date in your diary for April 29th, 4.30pm at the Methodist Church in Welford Road when we will meet together to do just that. We shall, by then, be in the season of Easter which means we can come together to celebrate the resurrection and acknowledge that we are all Easter people following in the steps of our risen Lord. So whatever Christian denomination you belong to, or if you don't attend, but still believe - we welcome you to come and worship with us on this occasion to recognise together that we are all part of Christ's body, the church, joined together in Christ, who is the head of his church.

Psalm 133 says 'It is good and pleasant when God's people live together in peace! There the Lord gives his blessing of life for ever.' Let's seek that blessing together.

We pray that your Lenten journey will lead you to renewed awe at the crucifixion and real rejoicing at the resurrection of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. May you know peace and joy and life in all its fullness this Easter time.

Father Owen, Rev'd Andy and Liz

Monday, March 12th at 21, Highcroft, Husbands Bosworth, hosted by Di and Peter Jones. 'The Vineyard Workers' Matthew 19:16—20:16

Monday, March 19th at 'Field View Cottage', Main St, Shearsby, hosted by Liz and David Austin.

'The Wheat and the Weeds' Matthew 13:24—30, 36—43
