

CALLING TIME ON THE QUARRY

Proposals tabled by Mick George Ltd. to extend the hours of operation at Husbands Bosworth Quarry have been thrown out by the mineral planning authority, Leicestershire County Council.

The proposal, to allow traffic to leave the site from 6.00am was deemed unacceptable by the council's Environmental Health team. The planners also agreed with comments, raised by the Parish Council and other objectors, relating to the local impact, including noise and disturbance, within a rural environment that the proposal would cause.

The report also cites the lack of supporting evidence for the operation of a traffic plan, poor commercial justification for the earlier starting time, poor mitigation of the environmental impacts and the impact on health and wellbeing relating to disturbance.

*****

In another application, the planning authority agreed to allow the importation of material into restoration areas adjacent to Butt Lane, previously excluded from the infill plan.

DIM VIEW

At the County Council's Cabinet Meeting in December, members agreed to dim all streetlights, including those on traffic routes and key junctions between 8.00pm and 10.00pm, as part of an 18 month trial period. Implementation will commence in January 2024 and will take approximately four weeks for around 68,500 lights to be re-programmed across Leicestershire.

The scheme will be monitored on a regular basis to see if there are any unintended consequences in relation to crime, the fear of crime or serious accidents.

The two reasons for change are environmental and financial. There will be benefits of reduced carbon emissions and light pollution and reduced energy costs for the council, which needs to save more than £500,000 in the street lighting department over the next four years.

The council has powers to install street lighting, but does not have a statutory requirement to provide street lighting. However, when it does choose to provide lighting, it must maintain it in a safe condition.

BLACK MARKET

As of January 1st, secondhand goods sold on-line may be subject to tax, known as the 'side-hustle tax' in a new HM Revenue & Customs clamp-down.

Digital platforms, such as eBay, Airbnb, Etsy, Amazon and Vinted will be required to share seller information with HMRC, and anyone selling goods to the value of £1,000 or above a year will be required to register as self-employed and file a self-employed tax return at the end of the financial year.

GO TO JAIL

Harborough District Council has been advised that there is no chance of succeeding in a legal challenge to the controversial decision by the Government to approve the 1,700 place prison at Gartree. In April, Harborough District Council refused planning permission for the proposed 'super prison' but the Ministry of Justice (MoJ) appealed. The final decision fell to the Secretary of State for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities, Michael Gove, who gave the project the go-ahead. At a meeting before Christmas Harborough District Council, following legal advice, voted not to challenge the decision. Members of the local action group said the news was very disappointing and the local communities could foresee that the local infrastructure, services, highways and transport would be unable to cope, with the proposed 800 staff.

AND THE WINNERS ARE...

A big thank you to everyone who entered our famous Festive Quiz.

All our entrants made sterling efforts, but there was a tie for the championships between Mike and Beryl Pennington and the Lawrence family, who were very closely followed by Amanda Parker and the Burfords and McKenzies.

Your prizes will be available/delivered as soon as our treasurer has been to the shops. Many thanks, once again to Ralph Horton for compiling the special festive issue.

Editor's Note: For the befuddled, struggling and doubting, the answers will be posted on-line shortly at: www.husbandsbosworth.info

CLOCKWORK

Attentive villagers will have noticed that the church clock has recently returned to 'life', telling the time, and the chimes have been ringing out again after a prolonged hiatus...

Many thanks to Jeremy Ingram from Sulby and Bosworth villager, Peter Bugge for tackling the restoration of the old clock mechanism, which dates back to the 1600s. The Parochial Church Council is now hoping to secure funding for the restoration of the 'face' of the clock - the dial, which was last cleaned and re-gilded in 1983 by village clockmaker and belfry engineer, Geoff Armitage.

BUGLE POSTBAG

From Mary Salter, Market Harborough

There are some really genuine people out there! Whilst in Husbands Bosworth before Christmas I developed a puncture in my car tyre and was in real difficulty. However, a very kind gentleman and his little boy came to my rescue. He said, "I'll change that tyre for you, it will only take a few minutes".

I was so very grateful to him and would have loved to have written to him personally, but I did not have his address. So, here, via the Bugle, is a big heart-felt thank you to you...

Editor's Note: Many will recall the beatific Mary, who for many years served behind the counter at the old Post Office.

From Paula Oxley (née Halden), North Kilworth

Thank you to all those who sent messages of condolence and who attended the funeral of my father, Ken Halden.

Ken was born at Firs Farm in 1925. His father Bill's family were at Highcroft Farm and his mother Nellie's family kept the Red Lion. Ken attended Husbands Bosworth School and won a scholarship to Market Harborough Grammar School, cycling there every day. When war broke out, he left school early to work with his father on the farm. It was while ploughing that he met the love of his life, Pat, a Land Army girl from Derbyshire. They moved to Lammes Close as a young married couple and were both involved in village community life. Ken was a founder member of the Historical Society. He loved nature, never lost his interest in farming, and enjoyed his view of the fields until the end. Thank you!

COURIER FRAUD

Lutterworth Policing Unit would like to raise awareness following a recent spate of courier fraud in Leicestershire.

Typically scammers contact the victims by phone, claiming to be from the police or fraud squad, who are investigating criminal activity on your bank account. The victim is instructed to withdraw large sums of money from their bank account, which would be collected by a courier and transferred to a 'safe' account whilst the crime is being investigated.

Visit sites such as Action Fraud, Age UK and Crime Stoppers to familiarise yourself with what courier fraud is, signs to look out for, and to hopefully help friends, relatives and neighbours

If you are unsure hang up and ring your bank directly.

WILD ABOUT BOSWORTH

Eurasian or common magpie - Pica Pica

Magpies are corvids and 'Pica' is classical Latin for a magpie. In the olden days, they were simply known as 'Pies', until the prefix 'Mag' was added in the 16th century. Mag was a diminutive form of Margaret, which was used to mean women in general. The rationale for this name change, presumably instigated by men, is they were disparagingly comparing the chattering birds with chattering ladies!

Magpies are omnivorous, eating small mammals, insects, scraps, carrion, acorns, grain, and other vegetable matter, and yes, they do have a liking for young birds and eggs. I've also enjoyed watching an individual performing a balancing act on my bird feeder for a meal of lard.

Mating takes place in spring and begins with the males dancing a courtship display to charm a prospective mate. They are monogamous and a pair will tend to occupy the same territory year after year. The male brings material for the nest which is built by the female. He also devotedly feeds his wife as she spends three weeks incubating the eggs.

Non-breeding birds congregate in flocks which have the collective noun of either a conventicle, gulp, mischief, tidings or tribe.

Tests have shown magpies to be extremely intelligent. They are the only birds that can recognise themselves in a mirror; a talent they share with apes, dolphins, elephants, and humans. Perhaps it is this intelligence that led them to travel on the roof of Noah's ark, rather than share the space inside with the multitude of cats, raptors, and snakes.

There are many versions of the magpie counting rhyme which was first recorded in 1780. Perhaps the most popular begins: 'One for sorrow, Two for mirth, Three for a funeral, and Four for a birth'.

SCHOOL REPORT

HUSBANDS BOSWORTH C. of E. PRIMARY SCHOOL Head Teacher Alan Eathorne

Calling all farming families, can you help us with our Farm School initiative?

Every year we take our children out and about to visit different farms to support their understanding of the world they live in and the community that surrounds them.

We have some wonderful farms who we already work with, but we would love to visit one or two more over the year. Could we come and visit you and find out about how you farm, or would you be happy to come into school to give a talk, demonstration or bring in your sheep dog for a show and tell?

We really do value our farming neighbours and want to inspire our children to care for the natural world and support what our farmers do for us. If you can help, please email office@hus.learnat.uk or call 0185 880 212 for the attention of Georgie Willock.

BYGONE BOSWORTH

Images from the Historical Society's Archive Collection

This fine photograph of Welford & Kilworth Station from our Archive Collection helps to convey the reality of winter life on the railways. At the time that this picture was taken the goods yard was obviously still working.

In Recollections of a Country Station, signalman at Kilworth crossing, Harry Aland, describes in detail the workings of the station and the hierarchy of the staff... The goods and passenger sides of the business were run separately, but a station-master was in overall control of the site.

Goods incoming by rail would typically be bagged cattle cake, which was stored in the goods shed for farmers to collect, and live cattle from Wales for fattening on the rich Welland Valley pastures, which were off-loaded into the extensive cattle-pens. Occasionally, hunting horses for the local hunts and luggage for the huntsmen were conveyed by rail. During the building of the RAF stations at Husbands Bosworth and Bruntingthorpe, much of the construction material was brought to Kilworth for onward dispatch.

Outgoing goods included up to 12,000 gallons of milk a day from the United Dairies depot on the opposite side of the main road, which was shipped down to London daily. During the winter, rose trees from Gandy's Roses were a regular traffic.

Interestingly, Harry Aland recalls that shortly before the station closed in June 1966 the station lighting was completely modernised - the station, platforms and yards were apparently better lit than Rugby!

The churns propped up against the wall were for fresh water for Yelvertoft & Stanford Park station, which didn't have its own water supply.

HAVING YOUR SAY

The Local Plan is the long-term development plan for Harborough District, and sets a strategy for the amount, location and design of new built development, such as homes, schools, employment, retail etc., whilst helping to protect the countryside, important green spaces and our built and natural heritage from inappropriate development. Although the adopted plan is still valid, a new local plan is being prepared to ensure Harborough remains up to date, and in line with Government guidance. A consultation has been put in place to enable those living or working within the district to have their say. The consultation document focuses on key planning issues, including homes, jobs, heritage, town centres, climate change, biodiversity and protection of important open spaces. Each issue is introduced, explained, and feedback is invited on a number of consultation questions.

Broadly the consultation will consider issues and options for future development, housing and employment. A renewed Call for Sites that landowners are prepared to offer up for development will be opened to identify future expansion areas. The plan will also seek to refresh the list of Non-designated Heritage Assets.

A number of drop-in events are planned across the district. Search: Harborough Local Plan Review consultation period ends on February 27th 2024.

Comparing Scars...

In the film, Jaws, there is a scene where Quint, the crusty old fisherman who has been hired to kill the shark, and Hooper, the young scientific researcher from the Oceanographic Institute, are comparing scars.

Both men have been bitten and scarred in their encounters with different sharks and marine life, as well as through their other adventures in life. They seek to outdo each other, as they share the stories of their many injuries; injuries that give testimony to their bravery and risk-taking. At one point Chief Brody, the danger-averse police chief, looks down at his appendix scar, almost like he is trying to imagine a story he could make up about it... Being scarred is a universal feature of human-ness. In the act of being born we are scarred, when we are detached from our mother's body. A scar that we carry for the rest of our lives - our belly button! Our navel 'scar' reminds us that our lives are a costly gift, given to us by our mothers, at great cost and inconvenience to themselves. Something that should give us all pause for thought.

In the Bible scars are important too. St. Paul's body bore the scars of his many beatings and stonings and no less than three shipwrecks. So, when the churches that he had founded fell out with him and new leaders rose up to oppose him, he wrote this to them; "From now on let no one cause me trouble, for I bear on my body the marks of Jesus" [Galatians 6:17]. His scars were the proof of his devotion to Christ, of his willingness to suffer for the cause of Jesus. His scars were his glory.

But even more significant than St. Paul, it is interesting that after his resurrection, Jesus, in his glorified body, still carries the scars of his crucifixion. We might wonder why? Shouldn't those scars have been healed, erased, shouldn't Jesus' glorified body be perfect and whole?

The reason those scars remain is that they are the absolute demonstration of Jesus's life and work. Jesus is the one who suffered and died for our salvation. His scars do not diminish him, rather they demonstrate his essence, his victory, his sacrifice. His scars are his glory.

So, the next time you are comparing scars and telling the stories of how you got them, remember the glorious injuries of Jesus, willingly accepted for your salvation.
